Associate Consultant

beth.nyman@liw3.com

Beth Nyman is an exceptional transformational Business Leadership Master Facilitator, Trainer and Coach, with extensive instructional design experience.

Since 1995, Beth has worked with a full spectrum of business teams from blue chip to small businesses, helping them to differentiate in very competitive market places. She does this by teaching and coaching powerful interpersonal skills that transform how managers and staff interact with their internal and external customers.

Beth's expertise drives deep and relevant personal behaviour change at all levels of the business value chain. She is a powerful presenter and is known for her outstanding skills in engagement as well as innovation, energy, passion, and depth in all blended learning environments as well as her ability to closely customize content for credibility and relevance.

Beth has a talent for quickly understanding learning outcomes, and tailoring and delivering a program to be of high relevance, and gains credibility and engagement early so that the audience is fully engaged and into the learning experience.

Beth is passionate about embedding skills learned in a training environment, through application, coaching and mentoring. She personally has coached many participants post the classroom learning environment but she has extensive experience for 18 years in facilitating coaching skills to managers to embed learning and to continue to develop their teams.
