Ian Taylor

Associate Consultant

ian.taylor@liw3.com

Ian's experience and range of knowledge has been built over more than twenty years in the adult learning and presentation field and includes extensive face-to-face course design and delivery, video and virtual deliveries and presentations, conference facilitation, and sporting analysis and commentary.

He has a demonstrated ability to speak persuasively and convincingly, and he energises audiences with his ability to present in an engaging and dynamic way to explain key concepts and strategies.

Acknowledged as a successful facilitator and presenter in his own right, Ian has also managed and coached others to help them develop and achieve their best with their own presentation styles. He is regarded as an outstanding role model, facilitator and guide. He has a proven track record of understanding and addressing client needs and through that he develops clear and concise presentations which achieve a client's learning objectives.

As a leader of a strategic team with one of Australia's leading banks, Ian managed, coached and developed facilitators. He researched, designed and delivered leadership, behavioural, sales and technical programs throughout Australia that achieved outstanding results and significant culture change within the organisation. As a consultant to a major financial advice company, he conducted a range of behavioural skills programs, and provided coaching and formal assessments of participants, aligning a robust compliance culture with a client-focused perspective.

Since 2001 Ian has worked as an independent consultant, partnering with organisations on a range of sales, service and leadership initiatives. He has worked with front line teams and team leaders at all levels in a diverse range of organisations.
