

LIW | Leadership, not just leaders

Linton Chalmers

Associate Consultant

linton.chalmers@liw3.com

Linton is an experienced facilitator, consultant and coach, having worked with leading companies all over the world. He has spent thousands of hours on his feet in front of groups, and successfully led client engagements with leadership teams as small as 5, to conferences of 1000+. He's passionate about helping individuals and organisations improve, with an emphasis on trajectory more than position.

With energy, rapport and an intuitive style, Linton is at his happiest when in front of a room, giving people an experience that serves as a stimulus for change. His focus is then equipping people to embed and sustain that change through new thinking and ways of working.

He has led client engagements across Europe, North America, and all over Asia Pacific, and has broad experience with leaders and their teams across industry and sector. He has worked with clients including Microsoft, KPMG, Qantas, HSBC, Samsung and Novartis.

Linton has hands on experience in people leadership, most recently as the head of a behavioural change consulting practice in London. Originally from Queenstown NZ, he resides with his wife in Sydney.

Mini Bio

- An experience leading client engagements with leadership groups across APAC, EMEA and North America
- Thousands of hours of facilitation experience with hundreds of clients
- Fascinated by effective leadership in times of change

Qualifications

- BDI accredited facilitator
- Design Thinking accredited facilitator – IDEO/Experience Point
- Masters of International Law & International Relations, UNSW
- Bachelor of Theology, SCD
- Diploma of Management