

LIW | Leadership, not just leaders

Stuart Dalziel

Associate Consultant
stuart.dalziel@liw3.com

Stuart Dalziel works with LIW as a global leadership expert with a focus on high-performing teams. He is a coach, creative change consultant, trainer and speaker on the subject and uses a range of approaches to help teams significantly improve their collaboration, cohesion and clarity.

Stuart has helped develop over 300 teams across 33 countries during a career spanning 37 years. His team development experience and expertise include the models of Belbin, Lencioni, Katzenbach and Smith and Tuckman. He has also developed a team alignment technique focusing on the outputs and customers of the team which has delivered breakthrough results for 100s of teams.

Stuart's wider expertise includes customer experience, creating sustainable change, service leadership, coaching, behavioural change, franchising, sales, facilitation, management development, networking, business development, and marketing.

Previous experience includes holding CMO and MD roles in major businesses.

Mini Bio

- A coach, creative change consultant, trainer and speaker on customer experience and advocacy and behavioural change using a range of approaches to help businesses significantly improve the experience of their customers and employees and bring the best out of their people.

Qualifications

- Marketing Diploma
- Applied behavioural psychology