

LIW | Leadership, not just leaders

Tetsuya Hanada

Associate Consultant

tetsuya.hanada@liw3.com

Tetsuya's background is in communication, and he has worked as a trader at Mitsubishi Corporation for four years. Then, he entered his career path as a school owner and has been giving lectures on how to improve communication skills for over twenty years.

His commitment to fostering intercultural mindsets stems from his experience working and living abroad in countries, such as the United States, Spain, and Japan, where he is now based.

After high school in Japan, Tetsuya moved to Los Angeles, where he graduated from the University of Southern California with a degree in Communications.

Tetsuya speaks both Japanese and English. He has been giving lectures at several colleges in Japan as well as his own school.

Tetsuya's first book, Bunpo-Tokkyu, has been selling more than 850,000 copies in Asia.

Due to his background and experience in intercultural communication and trading, many of Tetsuya's clients have sought him out to help people make a successful transition into a new global leadership role or manage change and conflict among existing global teams.

Mini Bio

- With over twenty years of teaching experience
- Worked as a trader
- His book has been selling more than 850,000 copies in Asia.

Qualifications

- University of Southern California, Bachelor of Arts (B.A.), Communications
- Speaks both Japanese and English