Kimi Kurokawa
Associate Consultant
Kimi.Kurokawa@liw3.com

Kimi embarked on his first career serving as a diplomat for the Japanese government, where his achievements included conducting numerous successful negotiations and collaborations with other nations and international entities. Simultaneously, he contributed his expertise as the executive interpreter for the Prime Minister of Japan during his diplomatic tenure.

In his subsequent independent career, Kimi established his own consulting firm with a specialized focus on organizational development (OD) and leadership development (LD). Kimi has been instrumental in designing and conducting a multitude of workshops, assisting organizations of varying scales, both domestically and internationally. His unique, thought-provoking training program maintains a remarkable customer adoption rate of 100%.

Kimi's repertoire in OD/LD extends to several key areas:

- Formulation of Corporate Purpose and Vision
- Business Incubation Strategies
- Managerial Coaching Skill Training
- Conflict Resolution
- Promoting Introspective Leadership
- Cultivating Interpersonal Intelligence within Teams

Kimi has an additional niche in the conception and execution of science-based learning experiences pertinent to diverse business topics. This includes behavioral science, communication strategies, problem analysis, and decision-making paradigms.

In 2021, Kimi launched business partnership with the U.S.-based Minerva Project. His contributions are chiefly centered around curating and administering a high-level executive leadership development program, aimed at empowering senior corporate leaders in Japan to manage the ever-increasing complexity in today's business environment.
